Description

Elegant 19th-century wax seal, featuring a finely cut agate handle in warm orange hues, with beautiful natural veins characteristic of the stone. Its faceted shape, slightly more imposing than that of traditional seals, makes it particularly pleasant to hold. The silver frame, richly decorated with raised floral motifs, supports a square die engraved with a stylized monogram, testifying to personal and refined use. The set illustrates the craftsmanship of the period, as well as a taste for objects that are both utilitarian and aesthetically pleasing.
