Description

Spanish earthenware plate with blue decoration - 19th century
Beautiful earthenware plate with blue decoration on a white background, featuring a rich Baroque-inspired motif of scrolls, volutes and stylized floral elements, symmetrically organized around a central motif. This type of decoration, typical of 19th-century Spanish production, evokes the great Iberian ceramic traditions influenced by the ancient decorations of Talavera or Manises. An antique label on the reverse specifies: "Spanish plate given by Uncle Louis Taver..., in memory of Bayonne, killed June 13, 1840", bringing an interesting period testimony and historical dimension to the object. Enamel showing a beautiful patina with light wear and minor flaws in keeping with its age. Diameter: 30 cm Height: 4 cm Quality
