Description

A Tuscan sideboard from the early 20th century, crafted from solid chestnut wood. The piece stands out for its simple and functional design, typical of rural artisan tradition, with a warm patina that highlights the wood's natural grain. The upper section features a drop-down compartment, while the front has two drawers and two paneled doors at the bottom, offering ample storage capacity. Simple hardware consistent with the period. Solid and versatile, this sideboard is ideal both as storage furniture in the kitchen or dining room and as a decorative piece in rustic, country, or contemporary settings with an authentic feel. In good overall condition with signs of age that attest to its authenticity.
