Description

This elegant set of eight French dining chairs dates from the late 19th century, likely within the Louis XVI revival tradition, and is crafted in solid walnut, a wood highly prized for its strength, fine grain, and warm tonal depth. The chairs feature gracefully shaped backs with subtle openwork carving, showcasing refined lines inspired by 18th-century neoclassical design. Each chair is raised on turned and tapered legs connected by stretchers, ensuring both stability and visual harmony. The seats are fitted with hand-woven cane, which remains in very good condition and offers both comfort and breathability, while adding a lightness that beautifully contrasts with the richness of the walnut frames. The patina is particularly appealing, with soft variations in tone and a gently aged surface that enhances the
