Description

Superb original pencil and pastel drawing, signed lower right by Léon Detroy (1859-1955), a central figure and precursor of the Crozant School. This work brilliantly illustrates the artist's mastery of landscape art. It depicts a village with red-tiled roofs, structured by wooden fences in the foreground, set against a mountainous cirque bathed in soft light. It features Detroy's synthetic, modern touch, on the edge of Post-Impressionism and Fauvism. Provenance & Appraisal: A major reassurance: this pastel bears a label from the Étude Loudmer (Paris) on the reverse. Guy Loudmer was one of the most renowned auctioneers of the 20th century, guaranteeing this work's passage through a prestigious professional appraisal circuit. Conservation & Framing: The work has benefited from special care to ensure its
