Description

A roll of unused 1960s upholstery fabric in épingle jacquard. The pattern, on a black background, features a small, repeating floral design with tiny stylized flowers. The épingle weave creates a slight texture, offering a tactile effect similar to bouclé and visually reminiscent of small-stitch embroidery. This fabric has excellent durability, making it ideal for upholstery. This fabric is particularly well-suited for reupholstering modernist seating inspired by Scandinavian or Italian design. It is also suitable for Napoleon III-era armchairs, benches, and upholstered chairs. Features: highly durable upholstery fabric, brand new, never mounted.
