Description

A pair of Satsuma vases with an ovoid body, a flared trumpet neck, and a ring foot. Ivory-glazed crackled stoneware, overfired polychrome glazes and moriage, with gold highlights. Decoration arranged in superimposed registers: the main sides feature scenes of scholars and dignitaries in court robes in tree-lined gardens; the rendering of the faces is of a higher quality than typical production. Associated symbolic motifs--peonies, chrysanthemums, pomegranates, pine trees--complemented by cartouches of lakeside landscapes on the shoulder and geometric brocade friezes as a frame. Handles in the round formed of turquoise-enameled dragons holding golden rings. Floral decoration on the neck in moriage enamel. A perfectly matched pair. Double red square hallmark beneath both bases.
