Description

Empire mirror from the early 19th century, featuring a strong and elegant architectural structure. Crafted in wood with a warm finish, it is defined by ebonized side columns with decorated capitals and gilt details--hallmark elements of the Empire period. The upper section is enriched with a classical ornamental frieze, while the central mirror, generously proportioned, is framed by clean, linear mouldings that emphasize its formal balance. Turned front feet complete the piece, providing stability and harmony. A striking piece and an authentic example of the Empire period, ideal for both classical interiors and as a statement feature in contemporary spaces.
