Description

French oil on canvas portrait of mustachioed gentleman signed H. Labeyrie early 20thCharming, mustachioed and well-dressed, this charming mustachioed gentleman had his portrait painted in 1909, during the "Belle Époque" in Paris by a painter named H. Labeyrie. Painted entirely on canvas with a deep realism that underlines the gentleman's strength and pride, this portrait has come down to us from a time when hopes in Europe were towards the positivism of technological & social advances, although today this man's appearance bears witness to a bygone era. In fine overall condition, it's great to see the patina making the charm and authenticity of this canvas, a moment, a character, frozen for eternity on a canvas and its stretcher, just waiting for you to display it on the walls of
