Description

An Italian designer chandelier from the 1960s/1970s, featuring three light fixtures with Murano glass shades in shades of red, yellow, and blue. The metal frame incorporates wooden elements, typical of the style of the era. The shapes are simple yet well-designed, with a successful balance between materials and colors. The colored glass adds character to the piece and makes it suitable for both modern spaces and more vintage settings. Attributed to Vistosi, a historic Murano-based company active in glassmaking since the mid-20th century, known for its Italian design and high-quality materials. Overall in good condition, with signs of wear consistent with its age.
