Description

Walnut Veneered Side Table with Inlays (Late 19th - Early 20th Century) This elegant side table is a fine example of cabinetmaking from the turn of the 19th and 20th centuries. Crafted with a walnut veneered frame, it features a warm, rich grain that enhances its form. The top and the three front drawers (one central and two smaller side drawers) are embellished with refined geometric and floral inlays in maple and mahogany, creating a delicate chromatic contrast. The legs, with their sinuous, curved lines (cabriole), lend lightness and grace to the piece, ending in small bronze or brass feet. A fine ornamental detail consists of the chiseled metal appliqués on the sides of the central drawer. Perfect as a coffee table, entryway console, or luxury nightstand, this piece is ideal for adding a touch of historic and sophisticated
