

---

Louis XV Transition Period Dressing Table In Marquetry, 18th Century Parisian Work.

2 700 EUR

Period : 18th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Marquetry

Description

Dressing table in rosewood veneer, mahogany, satinwood, in fine marquetry of green-tinted boxwood music trophy. The form of the furniture is still truly Louis XV, but the "à l'antique" style that prefigures the Louis XVI style appears on the marquetry motifs (green-stained Greek wood fillets and rosettes). Nice Transitional Louis XV - Louis XVI period, circa 1760-70. This is the work of a great 18th-century Parisian cabinetmaker, but our dressing table is not stamped. Provenance: Château de Villiers le Bâcle. It opens with 3 flaps revealing: - in the center, a tilting mirror (mercury) - a locker on the right, below which is a slim, full-width drawer with an inkwell. - a deep locker on the left, - finally, the central drawer conceals a leather-lined writing case. leather: still

Dealer

GSLR Antiques

French Antiques - 18th to 20th century.

Mobile : +33658910924

4 rue Vicat

Grenoble 38 000

in the eighteenth century, well-made furniture incorporated a writing pad for writing notes that were to write bills that were exchanged several times a day. So, our dressing table has all the makings of a classic. Our dressing table has all the characteristics of a piece of furniture of the highest fine marquetry, chased and gilded bronze trim, writing drawer writing drawer, plated on all sides to be placed in the center of a room to be placed in the center of a room and visible from all sides. The dressing table was an essential piece of furniture in a lady's bedroom in the 18th century. room in the 18th century: it was used for grooming, to store secret and precious to store secret and precious objects, to write correspondence for writing correspondence, and for setting the scene when a visitor comes to the room. Our piece of furniture is a truly beautiful model of its kind. Our dressing table is in good home condition, varnished with an antique stamp revived by our cabinetmaker, very fresh colors without insolation, a few traces of old veneer, clean mercury mirror glass. mercury. Length : 79,3cm Depth : 45,8cm Height: 75.7cm