Description

Green opaline vase dating from the 19th century, illustrating the refinement of Napoleon III-period glass production. Its slender silhouette is sublimated by a delicately undulating collar, bringing lightness and movement to the whole. The finely hand-enameled decoration features charming polychrome floral motifs enhanced with gilding, offering a refined contrast with the depth of the opaline green. Fine craftsmanship and harmonious ornamentation testify to the skill of 19th-century glass workshops, in a spirit that is both decorative and elegant. Features: Height: 19 cm Material: Green enamelled opaline Period: 19th century
