Description

Large, spectacular sculpture depicting Napoleon Bonaparte full-length, in his emblematic posture, hand tucked into his vest, wearing his famous bicorne. The work is signed on the terrace "Alexandre de Tombay", a Belgian sculptor active in the 19th century, and is distinguished by a remarkable visual presence on an almost human scale. The treatment is particularly meticulous:- expressive, well-modeled face- precise details of epaulets, buttons and military costume- sober, authoritative attitude typical of imperial iconography. The sculpture has a beautiful, homogenous, warm original beige patina, reinforcing its decorative character. With its large dimensions, this work makes a spectacular decorative piece, ideal for a characterful interior, gallery or reception venue. Features Era: 19th
