Description

Rare pair of miniature vases in intense blue translucent sapphire-colored blown glass, they are decorated with intertwined plant motifs in a pure Art-Nouveau style.* Art-Nouveau period, circa 1885-1905 Very certainly a Bohemian work, in the taste of François-Théodore Legras. These handsome vases with a pan-shaped body at the base are surmounted by a tubular neck that narrows slightly as it rises, they rest on heels with convex rims outlined in gold fillet. The gold-painted decoration is underlined by thick lines of ivory-white circles, as is the upper band that encircles the neck end punctuated with them. One of them bears several numbers on the reverse, the other also appears to have borne a mark (surely identical) of which only a trace remains. Their rarity lies in this pair in
