Description

A superb Louis XV-inspired decorative panel, this oil on canvas seduces with the elegance of its composition and the finesse of its execution. In the center, a delicate floral basket holds a generous bouquet of peonies, roses and country flowers, treated with great subtlety in a palette of soft, luminous pastel tones. The whole is inscribed in a cartouche adorned with floral garlands and knotted ribbons in shades of blue, standing out harmoniously against a particularly refined old rose background. The balance of the composition, the quality of the drawing and the lightness of the touch evoke the great mural decorations of 18th-century France, in the taste of workshops inspired by the rocaille aesthetic. Presented in a generous format, this work offers a strong decorative presence while
