Description

An elegant round table in the English Regency style, dating from the first half of the 19th century, crafted from fine burl wood and embellished with refined rosewood inlays that highlight its design and the depth of its grain. The large, well-proportioned top features a glossy finish that enhances the warm tones of the wood. The richly carved, turned central base rests on four shaped legs with sculpted details, lending stability and character to the piece. The table features an extendable system allowing for the insertion of up to two 50-cm extensions; currently, one extension is in place. A piece of furniture of great elegance and presence, perfect for classic settings but also capable of standing out in contemporary spaces. Period: first half of the 19th century Origin: ENGLAND Condition:
