Description

Elegant walnut "sail" small table, enriched with refined fruitwood inlays. The decorative inlays, which stand out for their great elegance, adorn the top, legs and shaft of the table with plant motifs. On the top, delicate coats of arms, flowers and musical instruments also alternate. The surface of the small table has a curved curve, while the shaft has a triangular shape that ends with three curly feet, giving the table further refinement. Being a "sail" table, the top is foldable and can be unlocked using a lever located under the top, allowing it to be inserted even in the corners of the room. This classy and elegant piece of furniture is able to enrich any environment with taste and style. Italian manufacture from the Charles X period, early 19th century. Measurements: H x DM 119 x DM
