Late 19th century silver and steel cigar cutter. The decorated side features an animal engraving, probably representing a wildlife motif, while on the other side, a reserve is left for the future owner's initials, never engraved. The cigar cutter is hallmarked with a boar, a certified silver hallmark. Although the blade has a small accident, this object retains its character and functionality. The ring allows a comfortable grip or to connect it to a vest chain. Good spring return, just the knife tip which is missing (broken).
