Description

Bronze sculpture depicting a greyhound-type dog / Stylized Xoloitzcuintli - early 20th century
Elegant life-size sculpture depicting a slender dog, inspired by the Xoloitzcuintli (Mexican Hairless Dog) or, more generally, a stylized greyhound, crafted in metal with a burnished patina featuring refined green and gray hues. The figure is striking for its balanced proportions and elegant lines, which convey a sense of pride and harmony. The anatomy is rendered in a stylized yet expressive manner: a tapered chest, long and slender limbs, and an elongated head with erect ears. The surface, featuring engravings along the flanks, suggests musculature and creates visual rhythm, while the irregular patina lends depth and uniqueness to the piece. An object with a strong visual presence,
