Description

Empire Restoration period mahogany console, grey marble top, claw feet - 19th century

Description Elegant Empire Restoration period console in flamed mahogany, resting on a sculptural base with strong character. It features an original grey veined marble top (Sainte-Anne type) with groove, bringing a beautiful presence. The base is particularly meticulous: scrolled legs terminated by carved claws scrolled lateral brackets in the lower part front underlined by a discreet drawer in the belt Very fine woodwork with deep flame mahogany, typical of the Empire Restoration period (circa 1820-1830). A sober yet powerful model, ideal as an entrance console, behind a sofa or as a decorative piece of furniture.
