Description

Decorative bronze sculpture depicting a heron - Early 20th century An important and imposing sculpture in the round depicting a heron, cast in bronze and finely chiseled. The work stands out for the elegant verticality of the figure, emphasized by the long, sinuous neck and the naturalistic rendering of the anatomy, with particular attention to the definition of the plumage and the legs. The surface features a burnished patina with greenish oxidation tones, indicative of natural aging and material quality, which lends depth and character to the piece as a whole. The figure rests on a shaped base, also crafted, which ensures stability and formal continuity. The compositional balance and meticulous craftsmanship make this piece a striking focal point, ideal for reception areas,
