Description

Wonderful carpet with mihrab bordered on the inside by small carnations (desire for happiness) and decorated in the center with 2 tarantulas as if for protection (talisman). Above the mihrab, 2 stylized cruciform roses (love). The inner border represents the Garden of Eden (Paradise) and the large outer border is, not a succession of snakes (protective talismans), but rather dragons protecting the roses of Love... The knot-maker wants only happiness and passion with her husband, that he be protected from deadly animals and bad luck or malevolence (see the 4 small protective eyes at the top of the field). Woven and knotted wool on wool. Exclusively vegetable dyes. The piece is in very fine condition. A real painting, a work to be positioned hanging on a wall or on the floor, in a bedroom
