Description

This is the first time we've come across such an object! A magnificent English jewelry box that plays a melody when opened. This is an English jewelry box dating from approximately 1820-1860. It has a built-in Swiss mechanism. When the box is opened, a small pin detects the opening, then the music begins to play. Under the box is a small button for winding it up, so to speak. If you're interested, feel free to send us a message, and we'll be happy to send you a video with sound. Dimensions: 26 W x 18 D x 13 H
