Description

Small antique bronze statuette with green patina. Stylized female figure - probable antiquity. Charming small bronze statuette with archaeological patina, depicting a stylized female figure, standing, with schematic forms and deliberately simplified modeling. The piece features a beautiful green and brown patina, with ancient concretions and oxidation, testifying to long burial or prolonged exposure over time. The slender silhouette, the arms drawn back towards the bust and the summary treatment of the face evoke ancient productions of the votive or popular type. With regard to its style and workmanship, this statuette can be compared with productions from antiquity, possibly of Egyptian or Gallo-Roman inspiration, without a formal attribution being able to be asserted with certainty.
