Description

This Louis XVI-style sofa, crafted in stained beech around the 1920s, embodies all the finesse and decorative rigor typical of the last great movement of the XVIIIe century. The carved structure features a faunette decoration, delicately worked into the wood, recalling the mythological and pastoral themes prized at the time. The backrest, seat and armrests are adorned with an embroidered tapestry depicting a galant scene. Figures dressed in the fashion of the Age of Enlightenment, evolving in a bucolic landscape, surrounded by a rich floral border. The ensemble bears witness to remarkable craftsmanship, where the architectural sobriety of the Louis XVI style meets the softness of naturalistic ornamentation. This sofa is not just a piece of furniture: it's a piece of character, witness to an
