Description

Beautiful and elegant tundish chandelier with twelve lights. Made of wrought iron with lead bobèches and cast metal candle holders, this chandelier features bands painted in a delicate sage green, enriched with gold-painted palmette decorations. The decorative motif of the palmettes is typical of the Empire period and is also repeated on the crown of the chandelier. The almond-shaped cut crystals also add a touch of luxury to the chandelier, which is small in size and therefore suitable for any space. Its refined aesthetics and decorations make it perfect for enriching any environment with elegance and sophistication. This chandelier from the Empire period is ascribed to Lucca manufacturing from the first half of the 19th century. Measurements: H
