Description

A complete, charming 19th-century study set, once owned by a well-known notary from Salerno, with great charm and a striking presence. The set consists of a majestic full-wall bookcase, an elegant central desk, two chairs facing the desk, a main study chair, and a matching cabinet with a raised back panel. Crafted from solid wood with rich carved decorations, the set embodies all the authority and prestige of professional offices of the era. The large bookcase, imposing and refined, is designed to hold books and documents, while the desk, spacious and functional, features a substantial top ideal for work and consultation. The chairs, solid and elegant, harmoniously complete the space, with the main armchair--the most prominent piece--intended for the office owner. The cabinet
