Description

Geometric octagonal Art Deco wooden mirror, Italy, circa 1925. This geometric wooden mirror, from the early days of Italian Art Deco, embodies the movement's fascination with clean lines, architectural forms and refined craftsmanship. Its elongated octagonal silhouette, framed by stepped wooden elements at the top and bottom, creates a profile both bold and elegant, at once sculptural and modern. The warm, polished wood enhances the natural grain while emphasizing the mirror's geometric rhythm, giving it a sense of depth and understated sophistication. Its slender, vertical proportions make it ideal for hallways, dressing rooms or as a striking decorative element in a well-groomed interior. The craftsmanship is typically Italian: precise assembly, balanced symmetry and harmony between simplicity and
