Description

Antique Persian Sarab rug | 80 Years | Wool | 340 x 215 cm
This antique Persian Sarab rug is distinguished by its elongated, structured design, dominated by a spectacular diamond medallion in the center. Its ivory field, very finely adorned with small stylized geometric and floral motifs, contrasts elegantly with the midnight blue borders and shades of red, sky blue and powder pink. Originating from the Sarab region, this rug reflects a more graphic aesthetic than the large classical floral decorations, while retaining the visual richness characteristic of antique Persian rugs. Its slender composition gives it a refined presence, ideal in a large living room, gallery, library or reception room. Hand-woven in wool, this antique rug seduces with its subtle decorative reading, color balance and authenticity. It is a piece of character, at once decorative, rare and timeless. With its long, almost architectural central medallion, this antique Sarab rug seems to have been designed to dress a large space with calm and distinction. It carries in its lines the memory of a more graphic Persian craft, where every detail tells of an ancient elegance, discreet and enduring.
