Description

A pair of Napoleon III-period, small, finely-worked walnut sideboards or bedside cabinets. Each piece opens with a drawer in the waistband and a door in the front adorned with rich scroll carving. The jambs are embellished with twisted columns, typical of the Renaissance taste revisited in the 19th century. They rest on turned legs and feature fine craftsmanship. The tops are in veined black marble, providing a refined contrast with the warmth of the wood. The upper sections are topped by a carved tier with a small openwork pediment and central shelf, adding charm and verticality to the ensemble. Beautiful bronze trim (keyholes and handles). Homogeneous, decorative ensemble, suitable for use as bedside tables, occasional furniture or narrow consoles. Dimensions: Height:
