Description

Empire-style chandelier in finely chased and gilded bronze, associated with a central basin in black lacquered sheet metal, typical of 19th-century productions inspired by the First Empire. The central cup-shaped shaft is highlighted by a decorative frieze, and ends in a dangling seed. It is suspended by six chains joined under an ornate rosette. The light arms, richly decorated with foliate and scrolling motifs, each support a faux candle binnacle. Beautiful chasing and gilding, with an elegant decorative contrast between the deep black of the bowl and the glow of the gilded bronze. This chandelier will bring plenty of character to a classic or contemporary interior. Era: XIXth century, Empire style
