Description

French school of the XXe century Régis J. Drevet (signature visible lower left) Apsidal chapel of Chartres cathedral Oil on canvas, XXe century Oil on canvas depicting the interior of the chapel of Notre-Dame de Chartres cathedral, an emblematic view enhanced by a rigorous architectural composition and an atmosphere of contemplation. The artist has chosen an in-depth viewpoint, structured by powerful Gothic pillars and ogival arches, leading the eye to Chartres' famous blue stained-glass windows, finely treated and bathed in soft, subdued light. The contrast between the dark tones of the stone and the vibrant glow of the stained glass and an impression of sacred silence. The brushstrokes are masterful, precise yet subtly blurred, the monumentality of the architecture and the mineral quality of the quality of the soil. The overall effect is one of meditation, typical of 20th-century religious interiors of the XX century. The painting is presented in an antique frame in carved wood richly decorated with foliate motifs, perfectly in harmony with the subject and probably of the period. A decorative and evocative work, ideal for lovers of religious art Gothic architecture or historical views of major French monuments. Excellent condition. Signature: Régis J. Drevet, lower left.
