Description

Louis XVI-style curtain desk box, made of mahogany, opening at the front with a sliding slatted shutter (tambour curtain). The curtain, mounted on runners and framed by brass uprights, reveals a compartmentalized interior composed of several shelves intended for storing mail, documents or files. A small side drawer completes the interior layout. The top is flat, allowing for additional functional use on a desk. The set features beautiful craftsmanship, with a harmonious contrast between the warm wood and brass frames. This type of furniture was used in offices to organize mail and administrative papers. Era: XIXth century Materials: Mahogany, wooden structure, brass fittings Dimensions: Width: 32 cm Depth: 32 cm Height: 22 cm Condition: Good overall
