Description

Travel writing case in blackened wood, richly adorned with elegant brass and precious wood marquetry forming a central foliate cartouche decoration. The lid opens to reveal a compartmentalized interior featuring storage for writing accessories, inkwells (present) and a correspondence space. The interior flap is lined with blue leather (or felt) forming a writing surface. The exterior decoration, sober and very elegant, is highlighted with brass fillets and a geometric frame, typical of the 19th-century taste for quality travel objects. Beautiful object both decorative and functional, testifying to the art of living and writing at the time. Era: XIXth century Materials: Blackened wood, brass and precious wood marquetry, sheathed interior Dimensions: Width: 34 cm Depth: 29
