Description

Superb Longines chronograph reference 7414 in 750/°° pink gold (18 KT), dating from the year 1962, illustrating the Manufacture's excellence in the design of high-precision mechanical chronographs. The watch is powered by the Manufacture caliber 30CH, a hand-wound column-wheel movement, recognized as one of the great chronograph calibers of the 20th century for its reliability, precision and quality of construction. It incorporates the flyback function, a complication created and developed by Longines in the 1930s to meet the needs of aviation. It enables the chronograph to be instantly reset and restarted with a single press, without having to stop and restart the measurement. Thus, the push-button at the top right allows the chrono to be started, stopped and then restarted, while the one at the bottom allows it to be reset to zero. Beyond its mechanical qualities, this watch illustrates a pivotal period in watchmaking, when manufactures like Longines were still producing movements entirely designed in-house, before the transition to standardized industrial bases. The dial, perfectly balanced in a bicompax configuration, is distinguished by the presence of a peripheral telemetric scale, reinforcing its instrumental character while retaining a great elegance of reading. The applied hour-markers and slender hands contribute to a sober, refined aesthetic. The rose gold case, with its harmonious lines, features a slightly domed "bubble back" back, ensuring comfort when worn and an elegant silhouette. The rectangular push-pieces and slender lugs continue this aesthetic typical of Longines productions of this era. Collector's chronograph, this model unites a grand house signature, emblematic manufacture movement and historic complication, in a remarkable balance between technicality and timeless elegance. The watch is signed. In perfect condition and serviced, its proper functioning is guaranteed by us for one year (except in the event of shock or immersion). Model:
