Description

Max Carlier (1872-1938), a renowned Belgian painter. A large oil-on-canvas genre scene. Set in a beautiful, upscale interior from the Roaring Twenties, two young women in light dresses--one seated on cushions, the other reclining languidly on a daybed--share confidences in a joyful, intimate atmosphere, bathed in the soft glow of a Tiffany-style lamp. A superb work demonstrating perfect mastery of light and shadow. Signed lower right; countersigned and titled "Joyeuse Confidence" on the back of the canvas. Housed in a fine, later frame featuring gilt wood and faux-marble detailing. The piece is in perfect condition. Rare format.
