Description

Very large Victoria and Albert sofa, designed by Ron Arad for Moroso in 2000. This flowing ribbon-like shape with the two oval openings is his signature. The continuous ribbon-like curve with the two oval openings. Ron Arad was inspired by the contours of the V&A Museum in London to design it. The bright red color is the most iconic version, although it exists in other shades. Simple, tubular stainless steel legs give the impression that the form is floating. It's an inhabitable sculpture. Postmodern, playful and deliberately the opposite of a classic sofa. This sofa is a true work of art.
