Description

Important French ceremonial mirror from the late 18th or early 19th century, in blackened wood and rich repoussé gilded brass decoration. This spectacular openwork pediment model features remarkable finely stamped scrolls, volutes and foliage, offering a particularly elegant and theatrical decorative presence. The combination of blackened wood and gilded brass creates a refined contrast, typical of the prestige productions of this period. Very beautiful antique patina and antique mirrors participate fully in the charm of the ensemble. France, late 18th - early 19th century.
