

Antique Display Cabinet, Made Of Wood With A Faux Marble Lacquer Finish, 18th Century, Marche,

1 000 EUR

Period : 18th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Painted wood

Description

Wall-mounted carved wooden display case, decorated with a marbled pattern. Triangular in shape, it features a red fabric background dotted with small gold stars. Its style and decoration reflect its origins in the Marche region of Italy in the 18th century, where it was used to display religious or decorative objects. Structure: Tapered triangular shape. Upper decoration: The top is adorned with a carved pediment featuring Baroque volutes. Finish: The exterior surface has a marbled appearance, a technique commonly used in the 18th century decorative arts to embellish wood. Interior: The red lining with gold stars may indicate a devotional function (containing a small statue or icon) or a purely ornamental one. The cabinet is entirely original, including the lacquer finish. Dimensions: H 145
