Description

Timeless elegance for your home This extraordinary pair of chests of drawers represents the quintessence of late 18th-century Neapolitan cabinetmaking. Crafted during the Directoire period, these pieces are not merely storage units, but true works of art that embody the neoclassical taste of the era. First and foremost, the refined choice of woods is striking: the warmth of walnut blends harmoniously with the inlays of maple, amaranth, and precious rosewood. Undoubtedly, owning an identical pair is a rare opportunity for any collector, as it allows one to furnish a room with perfect symmetry and unparalleled prestige. Superb craftsmanship and exquisite details The pieces are in excellent condition, preserving the charm of centuries past. Furthermore, the stunning patina of age lends the
