Description

Late 19th-early 20th century Vienna bronze by Franz - Xavier Bergman( 1861-1936), certainly the finest sculptor in his field at the time.Representing a mouse, standing next to a well-begun cake...She seems to be listening for the slightest noise that might alert her to the arrival of an "intruder" who might surprise her in the middle of her meal.The modeling and details of her anatomy are very fine and the colors used are not of a uniform gray but, on the contrary, very nuanced.Her attitude and expression are equally realistic and convincing.Signed with Bergman's B.L: 8cmH: 5cmVery good condition.
