Description

Suite of four large Italian Baroque altar spikes Italy, circa 1700-1730 Sculpted and gilded wood. Rare suite of four important baluster-shaped altar spikes richly carved with acanthus leaves, scrolls and stylized plant motifs. The moving tripod bases rest on scrolls characteristic of late 17th- and early 18th-century Italian Baroque. The architectural shafts, particularly elegant and slender, are adorned with deeply carved decoration and entirely re-gilded with antique leaf. The crown-shaped openwork gallery binnacles house liturgical candles. This is a very fine presence. Very fine decorative presence and remarkable craftsmanship. Work probably from central or northern Italy destined for a high altar or an important private chapel. Very decorative, they retain a strong
