Description

An extraordinary Venetian sketch on paper mounted on canvas, dating from the mid-18th century and depicting the "Allegory of Time and Truth," a work of the highest pictorial quality attributed to Jacopo Guarana, one of Giambattista Tiepolo's most important and refined pupils. The composition, of great scenographic elegance, features a refined allegorical arrangement typical of Venice: figures suspended among the clouds, vibrant play of light, and an extraordinary chromatic lightness that directly evoke the great decorative painting of 18th-century Venice. The quality of the work's execution is such that in the past the sketch was even attributed to Tiepolo himself, attesting to the very high level achieved by Guarana and his profound stylistic affinity with the master. The work is executed on paper
