Description

First World War French 1914 Model 1st pattern OR's "horizon blue" kepi. A "horizon blue" cloth body with the 1884 model vent to either side which are painted blue. Two small aluminium infantry buttons showing the flaming grenade, support the early black leather chinstrap. Curved, thick black leather peak to the front. Interior has its black leather sweatband and leather to the crown with cut out circular for owners details. The body of the interior is lined with hessian, providing the shape to the body. Showing service wear and mothing. A seldom seen piece of French early war headgear that had a very short production, replacing the madder red 1884 - 1914 kepi.
