Léon Jean Pierre Jacques Théobald Dalmas de Lapérouse 1873 (Ajaccio) - 1952 (Paris) sub-lieutenant in September 1898, lieutenant in September 1900 in the 11th dragoon regiment, lieutenant Porte-étendard in the 27th dragoon (1906-1912), captain on June 24, 1912 in the 29th dragoon. Assigned as a staff officer to the Beaudemoulin cavalry division at the start of the war, then to the Brugère infantry division. Subsequently assigned to the French mission to the Belgian army, then to the Grand Quartier Général des Armées du Nord et du Nord-Est. Retired in 1923 on grounds of non-activity due to a service-acquired invalidity of 25%, he subsequently devoted himself to a vigorous literary career. Appointed general secretary of the Missions Catholiques pavilion at the Exposition Coloniale in 1930, he is the grandson of Major General Theobald Dalmas de Lapérouse (1814-1903).
