Description

Elegant pair of Louis XVI-style armchairs made in the 20th century, recognizable by their fluted medallion backs, light structure and the characteristic balance of neoclassical vocabulary. The oak wood structure features fluted legs and armrests with sober, refined lines. The whole is enhanced by a green painted finish with gold highlights, bringing a more contemporary decorative presence while retaining the classic spirit of the model. The canework on the backrest is of the highest quality. The cane back reinforces the visual finesse of the composition, bringing transparency and elegance. The seat upholstered in a handcrafted plant-decorated fabric introduces a warm, ornamental note that contrasts harmoniously with the rigor of the lines. This pair integrates a
