Description

Solid bronze death mask of a handsome young man by Benoist 1990 cabinet de curiosité
XXeThe youthful beauty of this young man will be forever frozen in this solid bronze. Created by the artist "Benoist", a bronze sculptor at the end of the 20th century, this is a true work of funereal art, tragic poetry. A death mask is the casting of the face of a recently deceased person, to preserve a realistic portrait of their face forever. This bronze has an interesting patina, alternating between gold, bronze and brown, embellished with fine details such as eyebrows, cheekbones and mouth.... Ideal for a curiosity cabinet, the craftsmanship of this casting is demonstrated by its realism, the heavy density of the material and the fact that it can stand upright.
