Description

Pair of wardrobes by Guido Faleschini edited by Mariani for Hermès 1970's. Pair of wardrobes designed by Guido Faleschini, edited by Mariani for Hermès, 1970s. The volumes are deliberately monolithic, clad in dark velvet underlined by metal uprights that structure the front. The ring handles provide a discreet signature and high-quality hardware, in the saddlery spirit of the house. The high proportions and clean lines give this piece a very "interior architecture" presence, ideal as a dressing room, office or entranceway. A rare and highly decorative ensemble, working equally well as a duo or as separate pieces. Guido Faleschini is an Italian architect-designer known for elegant modernism, based on rigorous proportions and quality craftsmanship. His work favors sober forms,
