Paul Romain Chevré (1867-1914) - Important Art Nouveau bronze representing a young woman with flowers, signed and dated 1897. Elegant and sensual Art Nouveau sculpture by Paul Romain Chevré, signed and dated 1897. This graceful young woman, adorned with a floral crown and surrounded by garlands of flowers, perfectly embodies the poetic aesthetic of the French fin-de-siècle period. The composition is distinguished by its remarkable dynamism, with a refined twisted movement giving the figure an almost dancing presence. Its rich, nuanced brown patina highlights the delicate modelling of the skin, the fluidity of the hair and the subtle floral details, while its imposing dimensions reinforce the monumental character of the work. Chevré was renowned for his allegorical female figures
